

LEARNING OBJECTIVES - Lecture 23 (Strong Data Processing Inequalities)

After attending lecture and completing the associated readings, you should be able to:

1. Define f-divergences and derive data processing inequalities for them.
2. Discuss the benefit of strong data processing inequalities for a variety of problems.
3. Derive and use the Evans-Schulman strong data processing inequality.